RE: Symposium Invitation Letter

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the Chinese Biological Investigators Society (CBIS, <https://www.cbisociety.org>) and Society of Chinese Bioscientists in America (SCBA, <https://www.scbasociety.org>), we cordially invite you to attend our joint CBIS-SCBA Symposium to be held at Guiyang, China, July 25-July 30, 2024.

CBIS, formally the Ray Wu Society in honor of Professor Ray Wu, is an international nonprofit organization of professionals of Chinese origin in life sciences, aiming to provide a platform for interaction, collaboration, and advancement of life sciences around the world. Members of the society are principal investigators in academic institutions and research scientists in industry.

SCBA is a non-profit organization founded by a group of prominent and enthusiastic bioscientists in 1984. Currently, SCBA has approximately 2,500 members including trainees from various universities, academies, medical institutions, industrial and biotechnology companies. Together, our members have made significant contributions in scientific discovery and life-saving medicine.

Our biennial symposia typically attract several hundreds to thousands of attendees from North America, Europe, China and beyond. This is the first time that the two organizations have held a joint conference together. Topics at the frontiers of life science will be discussed through keynote, plenary, and breakout session speeches. We will try our best to provide you with an opportunity to talk about your work at this meeting. This is an excellent opportunity for you to exchange research ideas, to build a network, and to learn from colleagues in the same field.

We look forward to seeing you in Guiyang, China.
